

RM50,000 boost for college

GEORGE TOWN: Some 3,000 students of Kolej Tunku Abdul Rahman will soon benefit from a RM50,000 aid — thanks to S & O Electronics (Malaysia) Sdn Bhd.

The Kedah-based electronic factory's managing director, Hiroshi Ogawa, handed over the financial aid to the college's head, Amos Teoh Eng Hock, yesterday.

Present were S & O Electronics finance and administration senior general manager Kazuya Asami and human resource and administration senior manager, Lo Soo Fong.

Teoh said the college appreciated contributions from donors, such as S & O Electronics, to enhance its teaching and learning environment.

"We purchased 24 multimedia projectors using part of the fund given to us," he said.

"We hope the projectors will facilitate lessons and lectures here."

The college is a non-profitable educational institution, situated off Tanjung Bungah.

Hiroshi said the donation was part of the company's corporate social responsibility.
