Obtain a top-class accounting education at TAR College.

TUNKU Abdul Rahman College (TAR College), backed by years of producing brilliant academic results and it’s unflattering vision in providing affordable quality education, is undoubtedly one of the leading choices for young aspiring accountants pursuing ACCA.

The college proved itself as one of the best places to get a top-notch accounting education when it was recently awarded the Platinum Status Award by ACCA – the highest accreditation ACCA grants to its Approved Learning Partners.

The Platinum award is a continuation of the Premier Plus Award that the college held since 2005. The award has proudly positioned TAR College within the top 5% of ACCA tuition providers worldwide, while at the same time demonstrate that the college meets and surpasses the challenging performance targets set by ACCA.

Today, TAR College is a renowned beacon to students seeking educational excellence and continuously brighten the way ahead for professional accounting courses – it’s no wonder TAR College has produced 75% of the nation’s accountants. ACCA President Gillian Ball said ACCA is indeed proud to be associated with a partner as committed as TAR College in providing quality education to all. She was in Kuala Lumpur recently to present TAR College Principal Yoong Lai Thye a momento to commemorate the college’s 20 years of excellence as a partner in conducting ACCA’s Internally Assessed programme.

"The internally assessed programme offered by TAR College since 1987 testifies to the world-class standard that is consistently delivered by the college," Ball said.

"Running this programme successfully for the last 20 years is indeed no small feat. TAR College continuously demonstrates that they are able to meet or even surpass ACCA’s stringent requirements to run the programme.

"TAR College is the only institution outside the United Kingdom and Ireland that is accorded the privilege to conduct the ACCA Internally Assessed programme in conjunction with the Advanced Diploma in Commerce (Financial Accounting) course," said Yoong.

“The new Platinum award further reflects the success and strength of this Internally Assessed programme not just merely by time, but by the wholesome education philosophy the programme advocates.”

The Internally Assessed programme at TAR College truly provides students with a unique experience of being exposed to innovative teaching and learning approaches.

The ACCA curriculum is creatively woven into the TAR College Diploma and Advanced Diploma that promises a much broader spectrum that prepares students to face the challenges of the global workplace.

Students have the distinctive advantage of completing the College Advanced Diploma and ACCA simultaneously. They enjoy an all-round educational experience that includes projects, assignments, picking up IT skills and the mastering of presentation and communication skills. These proficiencies, coupled with opportunities to participate in student societies, clubs and the availability of numerous sports and recreational facilities, ensure the accountants produced by the college are not merely number-crunching experts, but are well-rounded individuals much sought after by employers locally and globally.

This holistic education is instrumental in producing student champions every year.

Two students, Teoh Yik Phing and Eileen Lim Ee Ling made the college proud by securing first place for Paper 3.3 Performance Management and Paper 3.7 Strategic Financial Management respectively in the ACCA December 2006 examination.

Most recently, Toh Su Hoon was placed first for Paper 3.1 Audit and Assurance Services, whilst Cindy Wong Chiu Wah obtained first placing for Paper 3.2 Advanced Taxation – in the latest examination in June.

For young, aspiring accountants looking for an excellent package in a comprehensive campus environment, TAR College is the obvious choice.

Affordable education can be first rate!

For further information about ACCA education in TAR College, please refer to their advertisement in this StarSpecial.